David,

The package was issued this afternoon. I am disappointed that it has taken us this long to get the thing from the designers and issued and we will be addressing this. In future all documents will be on Humming Bird prior to issue of the completion letter.

Jason,

This really is worrying. This is a design package which has been said to exist for sometime, which we requested in writing weeks ago (but did not have to), which is the subject of a personal promise to deliver (you to me) and which is still not with us. How confident should I be about the other design packages and the status of their existence?

David

Jason

I understood that the above noted submission was to be issued to tie earlier today however it has yet to be delivered. As we initially requested this by letter on 2nd August and then verbally last Friday I am wondering why it is not yet with us.

Gavin Murray
