Graeme

I will raise this but I can guess the answer – their process is to do this at IFC stage for the permanent design which has been delayed in this case by tie change

Damian, the question I will be asking SDS, is why they haven't already identified potential conflicts with the utilities we have already diverted. I can accept that they may come back and say we proceeded at risk, but I am not necessarily sure this is the case here – I may be wrong. Irrespective, they have an obligation to inform us of these issues. It would seem that once again we are doing their job, only because we know it will take ages for them to come back to us with an answer! Can you raise this with Jason Chandler, I will when I meet him next to discuss as-builts.
