I am working flat out on tie matters at the moment and so are the DLA team. I am making myself available to virtually all the tie senior management team on questions that they individually see as important - whether it is at high level, detailed advice, reviewing correspondence, production of witness evidence or media strategy related on a priority basis.

I am answering Tony Rush requests for feedback basically on an hourly basis and I am also attending regular lengthy tie meetings, and supporting McGrigors effort to get up to speed, as well as - occasionally - handling other client work and dealing with my internal responsibilities at DLA.

The short answer is not yet since I am managing production of our Pitchfork input through delegation and my own work. We will have a draft ready for you by Monday.

I have had no response at all from tie on my outline issue paper of January 29 which I was asked by Richard to produce urgently and did so and which would have informed our work on Pitchfork - has that been shelved?

Kind regards

Do you have a date for your pitchfork legal analysis paper being completed?

Susan
