I have spent a couple of hours slaving over a hot PC editing the tram report and taking on board Tom's comments. I think it is almost there. I will be away from the office tomorrow (on leave golfing with David Middleton of TS and E&Y) back in on Monday. There is a paragraph on Tie's own achievements in reducing running costs that will need to be populated and I'd welcome other comments on any points of factual accuracy. I think the current draft steers the right course between openness and transparency without compromising tie's commercial interests but please let me know if there are any remaining concerns. Best regards. Dave
